

Our family's disaster prevention notes

Write it down in preparation for an emergency.

Our family's evacuation shelter

Family meeting point if we get separated

Name	Date of birth	Blood type	Notes (health issues, health history, mobile phone number, work address, etc.)
	(DD/MM/YYYY)	Type Rh (+/-)
	(DD/MM/YYYY)	Type Rh (+/-)
	(DD/MM/YYYY)	Type Rh (+/-)
	(DD/MM/YYYY)	Type Rh (+/-)
	(DD/MM/YYYY)	Type Rh (+/-)
	(DD/MM/YYYY)	Type Rh (+/-)

Check ways to tell your family and friends that you are safe!

Disaster emergency message dial 171

When a large-scale disaster occurs, this voice message board service makes it possible to contact family and friends in the affected area by recording and playing messages even when it is difficult to get through because telephone lines are busy with people calling each other to check if they are safe.

Record 1 7 1 → 1 → 0 [] [] [] [] [] [] [] [] [] [] → Record message

Play 1 7 1 → 2 → 0 [] [] [] [] [] [] [] [] [] [] → Play message

Information is broadcast. ...

... Home telephone number or telephone number of the person you want to contact in the disaster area (from area code)

See the NTT website for more details.

Website <https://www.ntt-east.co.jp/saigai/voice171/> 171 or NTT

Mobile phone disaster message board

All mobile phone operators provide disaster message boards when a large-scale disaster occurs. You can record and check safety information with your mobile phone.

*This service is only offered during disasters.

Disaster Prevention Guide and Maps

Think about disaster prevention to keep everyone safe!

Bird's-eye view
 Earthquakes / tsunamis
 Storms and floods / sediment disasters
 Evacuation behavior during a disaster
 Receiving disaster information
 Other disasters
 Everyday preparations
 Emergency survival kits
 Individual disaster prevention activities
 First aid
 Evacuation shelters by district
 Flood maps
 Tsunami maps